FOREWORD

It is a laudable ambition of the student body of the Veterinary Division to publish a journal, in which may be recorded the activities of the alumni and of the Division; condensed reports of the research of the Veterinary Research Institute and of the departments; interesting case reports from the Clinic, and personal items concerning alumni, students, and faculty.

The success of such an undertaking depends most upon the enthusiasm of the student staff selected to represent the student body, whose whole-hearted support, in turn, must be forthcoming. There is no question about the interest and enthusiasm of those who have launched this undertaking, and who, for this year, will serve as a publication staff. If their efforts are emulated by the oncoming classes, success for all time will be assured.

I am sure I speak for the entire faculty when I wish you the greatest success.

Very truly yours,

DIVISION OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Chas. Murray, Dean
